COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The construction on the North-west Bethel Road is completed for this year. Nearly two miles have been graveled to a depth of twelve inches or more and a width of 20 feet. New culverts have been installed wherever necessary for proper drainage. This week a penetration coat of MC2 asphalt is being applied. This will bind the surface together until next spring when a mulch job will be applied to give a smooth long-lasting wearing surface.

With the completion of this section there is about one mile left on the upper end of the road toward the Gilead town line. This section has never been built up, but should be to have it comparable with the rest of the highway. It is yet too early to predict for next year, but when the proper time arrives this section will be given consideration.

Surplus funds have been received and are currently being distributed. Recipients of Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Blind, Aid to Dependent Children, and Aid to the Disabled are eligible as well as town welfare cases. The following amounts of food were received for distribution: Dry milk 122 lbs., Cheese 150 lbs., Flour 750 lbs., Corn meal 300 lbs. The only cost to the town for surplus food is the freight from Portland to Bethel.

Sincerely,
Harold L. Bean

MISS SYLVIA DYKE NOW LIEUTENANT IN AIR FORCE

A brand-new second lieutenant named a major last week, but it was all very proper. The major was Sylvia A. Dyke, Quality Control Officer and Commander Headquarters Squadron, M-51 Group, and the lieutenant was Sylvia's pretty 21 year old daughter, Sylvia Ann.

With M-51 commander, Col. G. O. Moffett, welcoming, Major Dyke swore his daughter into the WAF in a brief ceremony in the office of Wing Personnel.

Major Dyke, a veteran of 1944 years service and more than 1000 flying hours, said that Sylvia's choice was her own. "I'm proud as can be, but it was her own idea."

A graduate of Colchester College in Bethel, Sylvia leaves next month for Lackland AFB, Texas, for an indoctrination course before receiving a duty assignment.

"It's a wonderful opportunity for a girl to go places and see things," the parent lieutenant said. "I believe I'll continue to encourage which was my major in college."

From her college, official newspaper of the Bethel Air Force Base, Williams, Hannah.

ASO PLANNING PROGRAM OF 1958 PRACTICES

The opening of the Agricultural Conservation Program for approval of requests for Federal cost-share assistance for practices that can be carried out this fall is announced by the Oxford County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. William C. Chapman, chairman of the committee, states that the practices of the 1958 program are substantially the same as they were in 1957.

Mr. Chapman said that among the annual practices carried out in 1957, those involving seeding, liming and fertilizing to get a better permanent vegetative cover, or to establish a winter cover to prevent soil erosion, were the most popular. The chairman also pointed out that due to the lack of normal rainfall this year there has been greater interest in developing farm ponds for livestock water and irrigation, and in constructing drainage ditches and other practices involving earth moving that can be done better when the ground is drier than in a wet season.

The chairman reminds farmers that assistance in filing requests for approval of cost-share assistance for practices both for performance this fall, or for carrying out next year, can be secured by calling at the County ASO Office, South Paris.

SO THE WAY ...

People represent the greatest asset that any business can possess, and understanding their attitudes and desires, their emotions and beliefs, their habits of thought and action, is one of the requisites to maximum industrial achievement.

C. F. Hood, President, United States Steel Corp.

"The figures show sales do more than double the family shopping. The husbands can't afford to."

Electrical World

"A recent survey shows that average Americans believe profits amount to about 25 cents on the sales dollar. They think this is too high, but that 10 cents on the dollar would be a fair profit. The fact is that for the past five years, corporate profits have not been more than three-and-one-half cents on the sales dollar, surely a small return for the services rendered."

Share-the-road driving is the best way to bring a reasonable degree of safety to our streets and highways. Our Governor's Committee on Highway Safety urges us to be neighborly—to extend the courtesy of the road to our highway "neighbors." This means driving on our own side of the road; observing all motor vehicle laws; and giving the other fellow a bit more than an even break. Above all, it means that we should not drive "in-a-hurry"—committing those violations which are associated with "Hurry Bug" driving.

GOULD ACADEMY

Football
Gould will open its 1957 schedule playing at Bridgton on September 21st. Bridgton is a new opponent for the Academy eleven, having been signed last fall to fill an open date.

Coach Scott is building his team around ten lettermen, five of them having been regulars on either offense or defense. The regulars are: Captain Al Ordway (TH), Gerry Smith (FB), Jim Hill (HB), Al Sumner (HB), and Paul Murphy (G). The other lettermen are: Bill Black (G), Bill Ide (C), Bob Butters (T), Pete Nichols (HB), and Bill Tallon (G).

Other squadmen returning who have had very limited experience are Bill Gallagher (QB), Garry

SUNDAY SCHOOL AT HOME

The Methodist Church will launch a new program on October 1 called CHURCH SCHOOL AT HOME. This is not a suggestion that people stay home from Sunday School on Sunday morning but an endeavor to reach the hundreds of families who cannot attend. Distance, poor roads, and inclement weather keep many parents from bringing their children to the church for Christian instruction on Sunday morning.

Under this new plan suitable graded Sunday school lesson leaflets and study booklets will be sent free to any family unable to attend a church school. There are special materials for each age group—Kindergarten, Primary, Junior, Junior-High and Youth. A quarterly publication will also be sent for the parents. It is hoped that parents will guide their children's study in the home.

The project is for people like the Andersons. There are four children and a grandmother besides Mr. and Mrs. Anderson. They live fifteen miles from a church. Of course they could drive that far part of the year if it were not for the cost. Their car is old and uncertain. Mr. Anderson says they can't afford to drive that far to church. They do listen to church services by radio but Grandma Anderson says, "It's not the same as studying the Bible in Sunday school." Now they can have Sunday school papers and Bible study books selected for them by trained religious education leaders. They can study regularly at home. One hour a week of Bible study together will make a difference in their lives.

Any family may enroll by sending their name and address and the ages and school grades of their children to CHURCH SCHOOL AT HOME, P. O. Box 571, Nashville, Tenn. There is no charge for this service. Those who enroll during September can begin their study with the first Sunday in October.

These materials are published by The Methodist Church but are not denominational in content. No effort will be made to influence members of other denominations to leave their churches. A similar project is sponsored by the Methodist Synod of the Lutheran Church.

Alulay (B), Steve Karpowich (B), Eric Wight (TH), Larry Bragg (G), and Larry Cummings (B). Up from last year's JV's are Doug Rice (QB), Doug Houghton (G), John Todd (G), and John Luke (B).

New men to the squad are Don Rice, DesRoche, Steven Alulay, Dolinger, Weston, K. Bennett, Salway, White, Hutchins, Marsh, Pete Karpowich, Grenier, Watson, Tibbetts, Watson, Graves, Myres, Hathaway, Bergeson, J. Bennett, Morse, Ferris, Kelly, Race, Bartlett, York, Whitten, Ring, Belano, and Davis. Many of these are freshmen and all are unknown to football.

Coach Scott's biggest worries are ends, guards, and quarterback. The first four ends and three of the first four guards graduated last spring. There are no men to take over in the vital quarterbacking position either. However, prospects are about average. The team will be good in size but more speed would help. There will be hard runners and experienced men in the backfield.

Football Schedule - 1957

September 21, at Bridgton; 28, South Paris at Bethel.

October 5, Norway at Bethel.

October 12, at Lyndon Institute; 19, Berlin at Bethel; 26, at Mexico.

November 2, at Fryeburg.

Cross Country Schedule

September 28, Kennett High at Bethel.

October 4, at Fryeburg; 10, at Portland; 15, Gorham, Maine, at Bethel; 22, Hethron at Bethel.

Cross-Country

Coach Berry is working hard in preparation for the opening Cross Country meetings with a squad of seventeen boys, only one of whom is a letterman. Senior Richard Grover, the only letterman, and last year's squad members, Don Angeline, Tim Carter, Keith Brown, Kirk Newsum and Linwood Small are expected to carry the burden.

New members to the squad, most of them freshmen, are Pete Wheeler, Stan Clark, John Vinton, Steve Yeaton, Ed Bernier, Fred Lincoln, Reg Roberts, Jeff Newsum, Eric Bergeson, Rupert Grover and George Elliott.

Gould's two top stars of last year are not with the squad this year. Guy Whitten has joined the football squad and Mel Jodrey has transferred to another school.

On Labor Day evening members of the faculty, staff, and their families were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Ireland. Because of rain the annual picnic was held in the dining hall. After the picnic the faculty met in Hanscom Hall.

About three hundred Gould Academy students attended a get-acquainted square dance Friday night. Because of good weather the dance was held on the tennis court behind Gehring Hall. Square dances and "mixers" were featured as Raymond Hillman of Rumbold called the dances.

Saturday morning fourteen girls, accompanied by Miss Beverly Heal and Miss Dorothy Boyce, hiked to Songo Pond for an afternoon of picnicking and sunbathing. Since this was a pretty long hike for those out of condition after the summer, the girls were driven over and walked back.

Hamilton Electric Watch

The Hamilton Electric Watch has no mainspring, no winding parts. The hands are driven by the balance wheel. Its source of power, electricity, is released from the tiny Energy Cell in an unending, constant flow that results in remarkable accuracy. Of simplified construction, it has fewer parts. It is the only watch which runs without winding whether or not it is worn.

Conservation Farming in Oxford County
by Douglas L. Marston
Soil Conservation Service

A 2400-foot drainage ditch at the Sam Poor Farm in Andover was one of the recently completed projects under the supervision of Soil Conservation Service personnel.

A backhoe owned by Lester Willey of Norway and two bulldozers owned by Lester Farrington of Andover and George Hammond of Minot were used for the construction. This was one of the largest drainage ditches ever constructed in Oxford County. Over 2,000 cubic yards were moved by the machines in the construction of the ditch.

Another project recently completed was a 1,000-foot tile drain at the Arlie Holman farm in Dixfield. The tile was installed to drain a very wet pasture of about seven acres. The drainage from the tile will be used to supply a source of water for a farm pond that Arlie hopes to install early this fall or next summer.

A small farm pond of about 80,000 gallons capacity was constructed on the Axel Broberg farm in North Paris.

can be done about heating the Church—whether to buy gas stoves or what will have to be done.

Judy and Fred Judkins II are attending Norway Fair this week and visiting at Albert Twitchell's in South Paris. They are taking 4-H lambs and helpers for exhibit.

C. A. Judkins, who has run his store in Upton for 42 years, is selling out. His son, Kendrick Judkins, will take over the business in combination with the Lunch Room.

APPRECIATION
I wish to thank my relatives, neighbors and friends for the surprise birthday party, and the many presents so thoughtfully presented to me.

Refreshments, under the capable hand of Mary Rice, will also be part of the evening's entertainment—featuring delicious counter-entertainment along with the colorful consumer. Obviously, all of the committee is going overboard for all parents and friends of the PTA.

ANOTHER hunting season is upon us and before it is over needless acts of lives will result from accidents involving guns. Somebody "didn't think" was loaded.

It happens every year, in small towns and big ones, in the country and in tenement houses. Regrettably, the victim quite often is a child too young to understand the danger of "playing" with guns.

How do these accidents happen? Only through carelessness. Despite the fact that it is a foolish practice, many people keep loaded pistols or shotguns in their homes. They hide them, lock them up, or otherwise put them "out of the children's reach." But children have the uncanny ability of getting into things and discovering places; and few things hold more fascination for them than firearms. The natural thing for a child to do when he discovers a pistol or gun is to imitate the action he sees on TV and in the movies: he points the weapon at someone and pulls the trigger. And somebody is hurt or killed.

But the "unloaded" gun is just as dangerous. The average hunter of experience is careful to unload his gun when he leaves the field to check it again before bringing it into the house. But once in a great while this routine is upset for some reason and a dangerous, loaded weapon is the result. This may happen only once in a lifetime—but that one time can be the occasion for a serious or fatal accident.

There is no such thing as being "too careful" with guns or pistols. If you own a gun, keep the weapon in the case except when you are using it in the field. Store weapons in a safe place, preferably under lock and key, or as far out of the reach of children as possible. Check and double check your gun after each hunting trip.

MAINE BOOK PRAISED BY REVIEWERS

One of the best novels of the year on any subject and one of the best novels in many a year on the State of Maine is the verdict being rendered this week by reviewers on "The World of Carrick's Cove" by Gerald Warner Brace. A summer resident of Deer Isle from Boyhood, Mr. Brace has chosen the island as the thinly disguised setting for his eighth novel, which is told as though it were the reminiscences of 82-year-old Ben Carrick as he looks back over his life, with special attention to his youth.

Among those praising the book will be Gilbert Highet and James Gray.

In the Book-of-the-Month Club Gilbert Highet will say, "Every thoughtful word, every cool phrase, seems to come straight from the sturdy heart of a tough old Down-Easter.... There is a good deal about sailing in this novel.... The descriptions of weather, landscape and seascapes are very fine. 'The World of Carrick's Cove' is a novel I shall never forget, and I recommend it warmly to people who like the hard, resolute, ocean-beaten edges of the United States."

In the Saturday Review, James Gray will call "The World of Carrick's Cove" a "unique and striking piece of Americana." He then goes on to say, "One could not admire the treatment of the narrative more—all of it including the touching little story of a strong silent son of Maine and an equally strong, equally silent daughter, Mr. Brace first captured completely the idiom and accent of his narrator and then gave that narrator both his head and his tongue. The only right he seems to have reserved to himself as author is that of building scene on scene. This ordering of the narrative is what Ben Carrick would call 'able.' What seems to be the artless exercise in total recall of a very old man is actually a beautifully built story with climax arching gently into climax until a fullness of meaning has been achieved in a strong, un-

In addition, "The World of Carrick's Cove" is the editor's choice of the Retail Bookseller, which will say, "It has the smell of salt water and hay fields in the sun, the sound of waves and oars in rowlocks and the cries of gulls, the beauty of blue skies and green hills and blue-green water and of sails moving over that water. And it has much of the quiet power of that water, they can."

Although Gerald Warner Brace was born in New York and spends his winters as a professor at Boston University, his heart remains in Maine. He spends much of his summers cruising in a 31-ft. sloop he designed, and he and his wife come down to their house at Deer Isle just as soon and as often as of the quiet power of that water, they can.
